

Public Finance Experience

Tech Corridor Gowdy Field Redevelopment

Odis Jones, while serving as the President and CEO of Columbus Urban Growth Corporation, led the land acquisition, environmental remediation, and P3 public financing and bonds for a mixed-use project in Columbus, Ohio. It was executed in partnership with the Daimler Development Group.

The development serves as the anchor of The Columbus Research Corridor and is home of The Ohio State The James Breast Cancer Research Center and the Ohio State Wexner Medical Ear and Eye Research Institute.

The Ohio State James Breast Cancer Research Center offers the full continuum of care to patients. The Ohio State Wexner Medical Ear and Eye Research Institute is a five-story, 137,000-square-foot facility and provides various health care services.
